Batting over .400 In MLB, only 36 players have ever achieved a .400, or higher, season batting average. Josh Gibson of the Homestead Grays was the last to accomplish this feat in 1943 with a single-season record .466 average.

Unassisted triple play
The triple play, witnessed 736 times in MLB history, is already a rare spectacle. More exceptional is the unassisted triple play, where a single fielder puts out three batters. Since 1900, this remarkable feat has occurred only 15 times, highlighting the rarity of a fielder being in the right place at the right time.

Back-to-back no-hitters
The no-hitter is a remarkable pitching feat, achieved 325 times in baseball history. Johnny Vander Meer holds the unique distinction as the only pitcher to throw two consecutive no-hitters.

Two triple plays in one game
With over 700 recorded triple plays recorded in MLB history, a remarkable event occurred on July 17, 1990. The Minnesota Twins executed two triple plays in a single game, marking the only instance of such a feat in baseball history.

Intentional walk with bases loaded

In the majors, intentional walks are common. There is no greater tribute to a slugger's intimidating prowess than when the opposing team intentionally walks him with the bases loaded, conceding a run. This rare act has happened only eight times in MLB history.

Two grand slams in one inning
In over 150 years of professional baseball, hitting two grand slams in a single inning has happened only once. Fernando Tatis achieved this remarkable feat on April 23, 1999, securing his place among baseball's immortals.
