🎀 🎀 🎀 DOLLY'S WEEK-DAYS 🎀 🎀 🎀

On MONDAY morning Dolly's clothes all need a thorough tubbing.
So Six and I put in the day with washing, rinsing, rubbing, with boiling, bluing, bleaching too,
as all good washerwomen do, Till Dolly's clothes are clean as new and we have finished scrubbing.

On TUESDAY comes the ironing, the starching, sprinkling, pressing;
For doing clothes up prettily is half the charm of dressing.
And from our irons all the day we have to coax the cat away,
For with it she will try to play and that would be distressing!

On WEDNESDAY thread and needle fly with busting, whipping, stitching;
With hooks and eyes and buttonholes to keep our fingers twitching.
And while the scissors snip, snip, snip, we patch and darn and mend and rip, Till all is trim from tip to tip,
and Dolly looks bewitching.

On THURSDAY afternoon we take a recess from our labors, Dress Dolly up in all her best,
To teach her proper manners—
As she may learn to sit up straight, not come too soon or stay too late,
And always think to shut the gate
When calling on the neighbors.

On FRIDAY, dusting-rag in hand, we hurry up the sweeping,
And air the household furniture while Dolly still is sleeping.
We dust the mantels with a fair,
the closet-shelves and kitchen chairs,
And shake the rugs from on the stairs like truly true house-keeping.

On SATURDAY we bake our bread, with aprons tied around our waist,
Make sugar-pies and apple-tarts,
and cookies we set out with haste,
We fry doughnuts round as napkin rings, and set table fit for queens and kings—
And oh! We just cook lots of things For after church on SUNDAY!
